MEMORANDUM FOR Fiscal Year 2006 Worldwide Retention Training Seminar Attendees

SUBJECT: FY2006 Retention Seminar

1. Welcome to the Fiscal Year 2006 Headquarters Department of the Army Worldwide Training Seminar. Congratulations to those MACOMs who achieved 100 percent or more of their FY05 retention objectives. Although last year's mission was challenging, our success is a testament to your hard work and dedication and the professional Soldiers that fill our ranks. This year we achieved 108 percent of our active duty retention goal; 104 percent of our National Guard retention goal, and 102 percent of our Army Reserve goal. Soldiers are sticking with us because they believe in this "Call to Duty" and what they're doing.

2. It's been over four years since 11 September 2001. The War on Terror has now lasted longer than the 19 months that we fought in World War I, and longer than the time America fought in World War II. This is also the first time in our history that we have fought a protracted war with an all-volunteer force. Approximately 650,000 Soldiers are now on active duty supporting ongoing operations. The Army's contribution to Combatant Commanders goes well beyond Iraq and Afghanistan as well, to include over 260,000 Soldiers serving in 120 countries around the globe. At home, since 9-11, National Guardsmen, Army Reservists, and Active Duty Soldiers have helped secure our homeland by providing border protection, airport security, assistance in special security events and natural disasters like we recently experienced with Hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

3. This year's mission will be equally challenging with a large FY06 ETS mission and AC to RC Transition mission. The Army is once again counting on us to succeed. Management of the Army's retention program and assigned objectives in FY06 is critical to the Army's continued success in retaining a force of campaign quality with joint and expeditionary capabilities. Use this seminar to exchange ideas with your counterparts from throughout the Army. Learn from each other. Your leaders count upon your expertise to help guide their retention efforts.

4. Finally, I would like to offer a special thanks to the United States Army Special Operations Command for putting this event together. The senior leadership, retention staff and support team have worked long hours to ensure this event provides you a meaningful experience. Please thank them when you get the chance.

U.S. ARMY SPECIAL OPERATIONS COMMAND

INTRODUCTION

Since Sept. 11, 2001, few elements of the U.S. military have been more involved in the Global War on Terrorism than the Soldiers of the U.S. Army Special Operations Command, or USASOC.

In Operation Enduring Freedom, Operation Iraqi Freedom and numerous other hotspots around the world, USASOC Soldiers have been among the first forces to deploy in support of U.S. and coalition force objectives.

Many of these Soldiers, some of them on their third or fourth combat rotation, remain deployed to those locations along with conventional forces and multinational partners to help ensure the success of all GWOT operations, whether in a frontline combat role or a humanitarian assistance function.

HISTORY

On Dec. 1, 1989, the Department of the Army established USASOC at Fort Bragg, N.C., as a major Army command to enhance the readiness of Army special operations forces.

In addition to reporting to the Department of the Army, USASOC also functions as the Army component of the U.S. Special Operations Command, or USSOCOM, located at MacDill Air Force Base, Fla. USSOCOM is the congressionally mandated, unified combatant command responsible for all Department of Defense special operations forces within the Army, Navy and Air Force.

STRUCTURE

USASOC controls six major subordinate elements, which in turn train and maintain forces for deployment by USSOCOM to combatant command theaters worldwide.

USASOC's major subordinate commands include the U.S. Army Special Forces Command (Airborne), the U.S. Army Civil Affairs and Psychological Operations Command (Airborne) and the U.S. Army John F. Kennedy Special Warfare Center and School, all located at Fort Bragg, N.C. Its major subordinate units include the 75th Ranger Regiment at Fort Benning, Ga., the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment (Airborne) at Fort Campbell, Ky., and the U.S. Army Special Operations Support Command (Airborne) at Fort Bragg.

With an allocated strength of more than 25,000 Soldiers, USASOC commands both active-duty and Army Reserve special operations forces. The command also provides oversight of Army National Guard special operations forces' readiness, organization, training and employment in coordination with the National Guard Bureau and state adjutants general.

U.S. ARMY SPECIAL FORCES COMMAND (AIRBORNE)

In the aftermath of Sept. 11, 2001, the U.S. Army Special Forces Command (Airborne), or USASFC, became one of the U.S. military's busiest elements, spearheading coalition efforts to topple the Taliban in Afghanistan. Since that successful start to the Global War on Terrorism, Special Forces Soldiers have been key players in both Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom, firmly establishing their role as a combat multiplier by accomplishing high-risk missions that are beyond the scope and capabilities of conventional forces.

The mission of USASFC is to train, validate and prepare Special Forces units to deploy and execute mission requirements of U.S. combatant commanders in each operational theater.

Every day, USASFC Soldiers remain deployed around the world in support of GWOT, living up to their motto: "De Oppresso Liber" — To Free the Oppressed.

10th Special Forces Group (Airborne)

Fort Carson, Colo.
One battalion in Stuttgart, Germany

19th Special Forces Group (Airborne)

Draper, Utah

20th Special Forces Group (Airborne)

Birmingham, Ala.

USASFC consists of its command headquarters element, five active-duty Special Forces groups and two Army National Guard Special Forces groups. Each group has three battalions, a group support company and a headquarters company. Those companies each have six Operational Detachments-A, better known as ODAs or A-Teams, assigned to them. The 12-man ODA is the heart and soul of the Special Forces organization.

Special Forces units perform five doctrinal missions: foreign internal defense, unconventional warfare, special reconnaissance, direct action and counter-terrorism. Special Forces Soldiers employ these missions throughout the operational continuum, during peacetime, conflict and war.

Often, SF units are required to perform additional, or collateral, activities outside of their primary missions, including: coalition warfare support, combat search and rescue, security assistance, peacekeeping, humanitarian assistance, counter-mine and counter-drug operations.

FORT BRAGG, NC 28310 / (910) 432-6005 / <http://www.soc.mil>*

U.S. ARMY CIVIL AFFAIRS AND PSYCHOLOGICAL OPERATIONS COMMAND (AIRBORNE)

The U.S. Army Civil Affairs and Psychological Operations Command (Airborne), or USACAPOC, is based at Fort Bragg, N.C. and is the headquarters of Army Civil Affairs and Psychological Operations units. Of USACAPOC's approximately 10,000 Soldiers, about 96 percent are in the Army Reserve and are located in 26 states.

The command has one active duty Psychological Operations unit, the 4th Psychological Operations Group (Airborne), with six battalions; and one active duty Civil Affairs unit, the 96th Civil Affairs Battalion (Airborne), with six companies. Both units are located at Fort Bragg, N.C.

USACAPOC, is one of three major subordinate commands comprising the U.S. Army Special Operations Command. USACAPOC Soldiers maintain the highest standards of training and physical readiness in order to be prepared to deploy anywhere in the world on short notice.

Although Civil Affairs and Psychological Operations activities often complement each other, each battle system operates individually in support of field commanders.

Civil Affairs Soldiers are the field commander's link to the civil authorities in his area of operations. With specialists in many areas of the government, they can assist a host government in meeting its people's needs and maintain a stable and viable civil administration.

Civil Affairs Soldiers possess unique training, skills and experience. Since the majority of the Civil Affairs forces are in the Reserve component, these Soldiers bring to the Army finely honed skills practiced daily in the civilian sector as judges, physicians, bankers, health inspectors, fire chiefs, etc.

Psychological Operations Soldiers use persuasion to influence perceptions and encourage desired behavior. The cornerstone of PSYOP is truth, credibly presented to convince a given audience to cease resistance or take actions favorable to friendly forces. During recent combat actions, the effective use of PSYOP was a combat multiplier that directly contributed to the surrender of thousands of enemy forces. Also, it is clear that its effectiveness has saved the lives of many civilians and members of U.S. and allied militaries.

Psychological Operations units also have Soldiers with unique skills. These soldiers are communicators who provide the commander with the ability to convey information to large audiences via radio, television, leaflets and loudspeakers. The PSYOP Soldiers' language skills, regional orientation and knowledge of communications media provide a means of delivering critical information to host-nation audiences.

USACAPOC units provide support to all theater and task force commanders in meeting their global commitments. USACAPOC Soldiers contributed significantly to operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm and were among the first Soldiers sent to Somalia and Haiti.

CA and PSYOP specialists have been an integral part of peacekeeping operations in Bosnia and Kosovo, where their mission continues.

The Global War on Terrorism has again put Civil Affairs and PSYOP Soldiers on the frontlines of the effort to rid the world of the threat of terrorism. From leaflet drops and radio broadcasts to inform the Afghan people of U.S. intentions to civil-military projects and humanitarian assistance in Iraq and the Philippines, USACAPOC Soldiers are contributing to global peace and stability.

The unique training, experience and abilities of USACAPOC's Soldiers make them an ideal asset in dealing with national priorities.

160TH SPECIAL OPERATIONS AVIATION REGIMENT (AIRBORNE)

The 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment (Airborne) provides rotary-wing aviation support to Army special operations forces. The regiment consists of MH-6 and AH-6 Little Bird light helicopters, MH-60 Black Hawk utility helicopters and MH-47 Chinook heavy assault helicopters. The regiment's pioneering aviation capabilities have been constantly evolving since the unit's formation more than two decades ago.

Shortly after a failed hostage rescue mission, Operation Eagle Claw, at Desert One in Iran, the Army formed a special aviation unit. The unit drew on the best aviators in the Army and immediately began an intensive training program in low-level night operations. Designated the 160th Aviation Battalion on Oct. 16, 1981, the unit was popularly known as Task Force 160 because of the constant attachment and detachment of its assets in preparation for a wide variety of missions. Its unmatched expertise and mission focus on night operations resulted in the unit's nickname, the "Night Stalkers." On May 16, 1990, the unit was reorganized, designated the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment (Airborne), and assigned to the U.S. Army Special Operations Command.

The regiment currently consists of three battalions, a headquarters company, a forward-deployed company in the U.S. Pacific Command area of responsibility and the Special Operations Aviation Training Company. The 160th's 1st and 2nd battalions are located at Fort Campbell, Ky., while the 3rd Battalion is located at Hunter Army Airfield, Ga. The organizational structure of the 160th SOAR allows the regiment to quickly tailor its unique assets to meet the mission requirements of special operations forces.

The 160th SOAR actively seeks and accesses the best-qualified aviators and support Soldiers available in the Army. The unique mission of the unit requires that all members be three-time volunteers — for the Army, for airborne training and for the regiment. Once assigned, incoming officers and enlisted Soldiers go through respective Basic Mission Qualification courses. The Officer Qualification Course lasts 20-28 weeks, while the Enlisted Qualification Course is three weeks in duration. Two higher qualification levels, Fully Mission Qualified and Flight Lead, require 12-24 months and 36-60 months of additional progression, respectively.

The professionalism and capabilities of Army special operations aviation, developed through a "train as you fight" mentality, have been demonstrated in every combat operation since Vietnam, to include: Operation Urgent Fury in Grenada, Operation Just Cause in Panama, operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm in Kuwait and Iraq, and Operation Restore Hope in Somalia, Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan and the Philippines and Operation Iraqi Freedom in Iraq.

U.S. ARMY SPECIAL OPERATIONS COMMAND PUBLIC AFFAIRS OFFICE

75TH RANGER REGIMENT

The 75th Ranger Regiment is the U.S. Army's premier light infantry unit.

With a primary mission of planning and conducting special missions in support of U.S. policy and objectives, the regiment is headquartered at Fort Benning, Ga., and consists of three Ranger battalions. The geographically dispersed battalions are:

- 1st Battalion, 75th Ranger Regiment — Hunter Army Airfield, Ga.
- 2nd Battalion, 75th Ranger Regiment — Fort Lewis, Wash.
- 3rd Battalion, 75th Ranger Regiment — Fort Benning, Ga.

Since the advent of the Global War on Terrorism after Sept. 11, 2001, the 75th Ranger Regiment has conducted combat operations with almost every deployed special operations, conventional, and coalition force during both Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom. The Ranger Regiment participated in a wide range of diverse operations that included airborne and air assaults into Afghanistan and Iraq, mounted infiltrations behind enemy lines, complex urban raids and rescue operations. Throughout this period, the Rangers have continued to train in the United States and overseas to prepare for future no-notice worldwide combat deployments. The regiment also continues to recruit, assess and train the next generation of Rangers and Ranger leadership. More than 70 percent of current Rangers have conducted multiple combat deployments and many are on their fifth or sixth rotation since 9-11 in support of America's efforts during the Global War on Terrorism.

Typical Ranger missions are:

Airfield Seizures

- to establish air-landing capabilities for follow-on forces,
- to establish trans-load sites for precious cargo
- conducted using both special operations and light infantry tactics, techniques and procedures

Special Operations Raids

- strategic assets – high payoff targets
- destruction or recovery missions
- routinely operate within restrictive rules of engagement

Urban Combat

- advanced Military Operations in Urban Terrain techniques and breaching capability
- precision marksmanship
- advanced combatives (hand-to-hand) training

The Army maintains the Regiment at a high level of readiness. Each battalion can deploy anywhere in the world with 18 hours notice. Because of the importance the Army places on the 75th Ranger Regiment, it must possess a number of capabilities.

These capabilities include:

Direct Action Force

- provides critical light infantry capability and skills
- routinely complements or supports other Special Operations Forces
- capable of executing platoon through Regimental-sized operations
- resourced for exceptional proficiency, experience and readiness

Specialized Infantry

- increased lethality and agility due to habitual Special Operations Forces relationships and specialized equipment
- resourced and trained for deep, precise operations on hardened targets – in one cycle of darkness
- rapidly deployable and ready strike force

To maintain readiness, Rangers train constantly. Their training encompasses arctic, jungle, desert, and mountain operations, as well as amphibious instruction. The training philosophy of the 75th Ranger Regiment dictates the unit's high state of readiness. The philosophy includes performance-oriented training, emphasizing tough standards and a focus on realism and live-fire exercises while concentrating on basics and safety. Training at night, during adverse weather or on difficult terrain, multiplies the benefits Ranger of training events. Throughout their training, Rangers are taught to expect the unexpected.

All officers and enlisted soldiers in the Regiment are four-time volunteers – for the Army, for airborne training, for the 75th Ranger Regiment and for the U.S. Army Ranger Course. Those volunteers selected for the 75th Ranger Regiment must meet tough physical, mental and moral criteria. All commissioned officers and combat-arms noncommissioned officers must be airborne and Ranger qualified and have demonstrated a proficiency in the duty position for which they are seeking.

Upon assignment to the Regiment, both officers and senior NCOs attend the Ranger Orientation Program to help integrate them into the Regiment. ROP familiarizes them with Regimental policies, standing operating procedures, the commander's intent and Ranger standards. Junior enlisted soldiers assigned to the Regiment must first go through the Ranger Indoctrination

Program. RIP assesses Rangers on their physical qualifications and emphasizes basic Regimental standards. Soldiers must pass ROP or RIP to remain assigned to the 75th Ranger Regiment.

Junior enlisted soldiers assigned to the regiment who are not yet Ranger qualified must attend a Pre-Ranger course, which ensures they are administratively, physically and mentally prepared before they attend the U.S. Army Ranger Course. The result of this demanding selection and training process is a Ranger who can lead effectively despite enormous mental and physical odds.

Each Ranger battalion is authorized 660 personnel, which are assigned to three rifle companies and a headquarters company.

Ranger battalions are equipped to be light, deployable and high-tech. Equipment designers develop state-of-the-art warfighting equipment for the Regiment. Rangers are often first in the Army to test and field many new systems.

Current Ranger weapons and equipment include:

- M-4 Carbine
- 84mm Ranger Antitank Weapons System
- 60mm, 81mm and 120mm Mortars
- M240B Machine Guns
- Mark 19 RP MM Grenade Launcher
- Javelin Portable missile system
- Unmanned Aerial Vehicles
- Ground Mobility Vehicle-R
- Tactical Internet
- All-terrain Vehicles
- Grenadier Brat

When Soldiers leave the Ranger Regiment for other Army units, they take with them enhanced combat skills, expertise in joint, special operations and conventional arenas as well as new tactics, techniques and procedures.

U.S. ARMY SPECIAL OPERATIONS SUPPORT COMMAND (AIRBORNE)

INTRODUCTION

In October 2001, 150 Soldiers from the Special Operations Support Command (Airborne), headquartered at Fort Bragg, N.C., were among the first deployed in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. Since that time, SOSCOM Soldiers have been continuously deployed in support of the Global War on Terrorism.

At the onset of Operation Iraqi Freedom in March 2003, more than 600 SOSCOM Soldiers were deployed throughout the U.S. Central Command theater in support of the war effort. Involved in every major operation of the GWOT, and often among the first troops on the ground, SOSCOM Soldiers continue to support Army and joint special operations forces around the globe.

HISTORY AND ORGANIZATION

SOSCOM was activated on Nov. 1, 1995, as a major subordinate unit of the U.S. Army Special Operations Command. Its activation realigned the command and control organizational structure of the following units: 112th Special Operations Signal Battalion (Airborne); 528th Special Operations Support Battalion (Airborne); Materiel Management Center (Airborne); and five Special Operations Theater Support Elements, or SOTSEs.

The SOTSE Soldiers are embedded within the unified commands' Army staffs in each of five geographical regions around the world. They plan and coordinate with theater Army, SOSCOM and ARSOF to ensure support during operations and training. As a theater Army staff member, these officers and noncommissioned officers' knowledge of theater-specific requirements and capabilities assist ARSOF units in coordination with the theater.

The Materiel Management Center provides the ARSOF with centralized materiel management of property, equipment maintenance, logistical automation and repair parts and supplies.

Specializing in advanced communications and force sustainment capabilities, members of the 112th SOSB and the 528th SOSB, have the difficult mission supporting ARSOF assets in the field. In their respective fields, signal and support Soldiers provide supplies, maintenance, equipment and communications expertise allowing ARSOF to shoot, move and communicate on a continuous basis. Because ARSOF often uses SOF-unique items, Soldiers assigned to these units are taught to operate and maintain a vast array of specialized equipment not normally used by their conventional counterparts. To meet the needs of ARSOF, the two battalions have developed logistical and signal packages that are rapidly deployable. Soldiers assigned to these units are airborne qualified.

THE BLACK DAGGERS

U.S. ARMY SPECIAL OPERATIONS COMMAND

PARACHUTE DEMONSTRATION TEAM

The U.S. Army Special Operations Command Parachute Demonstration Team — the Black Daggers — is comprised entirely of volunteers from throughout the Army special operations community. They have diverse backgrounds and various military specialties. The average age is 33 years and the average number of free fall jumps is 560. The team represents the professionalism and dedication of special operations forces.

The U.S. Army Special Operations Command, better known as USASOC, was activated Dec. 1, 1989 at Fort Bragg, N.C. USASOC is the Army component of U.S. Special Operations Command, headquartered at MacDill Air Force Base, Fla.

For almost three-quarters of a century, highly-trained groups of Soldiers have been inserted behind enemy lines to disrupt the movement of enemy troops and supplies to the front lines. These brave Soldiers have frequently used parachutes as a means to infiltrate without being detected. Although most of the airborne forces of the world still use round parachutes, some specialized units use the Ram Air Canopy as their primary means of infiltration.

The Black Daggers use the military variant of the Ram Air parachute, which allows a free fall parachutist the ability to jump with more than 100 lbs. of additional equipment attached to him. In addition to the extra weight, the jumper must also withstand high winds, frigid temperatures and low oxygen levels, all of which require the jumper to be highly skilled.

When exiting the aircraft, normally from an altitude of 12,500 feet, the jumpers free fall for about two miles at approximately 120 miles per hour. They fly their bodies to perform maneuvers using their hands, arms, legs and shoulders to control their flight. The parachutes used by the USASOC team are flexible wing gliders.

The Black Daggers' mission is to perform live aerial demonstrations in support of U.S. Army Special Operations Command community relations and recruiting.

TRICARE INFORMATION

Medical Treatment Away From Home Station:

All medical treatment while away from your home station requires an authorization from your Primary Care Provider (PCM) prior to seeing a doctor. Emergency treatment, which is sudden, unexpected and threatening to life, sight, or limb, does not require prior approval.

What to do:

Proceed to the nearest emergency room or call 911
If you have a medical emergency go to the nearest medical facility that is equipped to handle your situation. A Doctor's Urgent care or hospital emergency room is advisable. You or someone acting on your behalf must call your PCM within 24 hours after receiving care to ensure maximum TRICARE Prime coverage. Additionally your PCM can plan for any follow up medical treatment.

TRAVELING WITH TRICARE PRIME

Who to contact when you're away from home and need immediate care.

TRICARE Prime does not cover costs for routine care while you are away from home, if your need for care could have been handled before your left or delayed until you get home. Care of this nature is considered "routine care". Beneficiaries who seek routine care while away from home will have their claims paid at the higher cost Point-of-Service (POS) benefit level.

There's no need to worry about your family's health or the cost of their care if you remember a few simple guidelines when you're away from home.

SERIOUS ILLNESS AWAY FROM HOME

Urgent Care. An illness is not life or limb threatening, but it is a condition that is serious enough that you cannot delay treatment.

What you should do:

Call Your Primary Care Manager (PCM)

Call your PCM to confirm that your need for care is urgent. You must call your PCM prior to receiving care. The name and number of your PCM are listed on the front of your TRICARE Prime ID Card. Your PCM may be able to call in a prescription for you or advise you on how to relieve discomfort while seeking treatment for your condition.

Urgent care received while traveling will not be approved for payment at the Prime benefit level unless treatment is authorized in advance by your PCM. After receiving urgent care away from home, you should follow up with your PCM to coordinate any additional care you may need and to ensure that your referral for urgent care was authorized for payment at the TRICARE Prime benefit level. If you can not reach your PCM

Call the Health Care Finder at 1-800-444-5445. Call the Health Care Finder only after you've attempted to contact your PCM. The Health Care Finders are registered nurses who can help arrange your medical treatment. They're available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. You must still. However, contact your PCM within 24 hours because only an approved referral from your PCM can ensure your claim will be paid.
